Jack Ferguson at his 1st STN meeting in August

STN Members Finding Work

Jack Ferguson was laid off from his position as Weather Radar Electrical Engineer with Rockwell Collins on May 17, 2012. He attended his first STN breakfast meeting on August 3, 2012, and by all standards would still be considered a relatively new member. During his time with the STN, Jack experienced great camaraderie, and reconnected with many of his former work associates from the Shuttle Launch Processing System. He enjoyed the presentations from a variety of speakers and learned from their expertise.
