Local Businesses Support the STN

The position of Business Support Member for the STN was created so local business people could get involved with the efforts of the STN and use their talents and resources in the rebuilding of the local community. No one defines that position better than Nancy Evans, Director of Sales for the Fairfield Inn and Suites in Titusville and Melbourne, FL.

Nancy's first visit to the STN came on January 6th, when she attended a presentation by John Porter and Michael Aller of the Spacecoast Energy Consortium. She is one of the earliest recorded Business Support Members, joining the group on February 10, 2012. Since becoming a Business Support Member, she has been helping out in a variety of ways.

This Friday's STN Meeting is Cancelled

Paul Kosieracki

Due to the large number of STN members who will be attending this Friday's roll-out of the Space Shuttle Atlantis, Friday's breakfast meeting has been cancelled.

Guest speaker Paul Kosieracki, who was scheduled for a 40 minute presentation will now facilitate a two- hour workshop on November 15th, at the Fairfield Inn and Suites in Titusville.

Paul Kosieracki is an experienced Senior Executive and Business Consultant with broad financial and operational management capabilities, which he developed through a varied education and many years of employment in global business. Paul is a licensed Commercial Broker in Florida, and is President of K&S Commercial, LLC, where he operates a nationwide and international business consulting company, focusing on business brokerage and business improvement strategies.

As part of his consulting service, Paul serves on the board of directors of several privately held companies, participating in the implementation of investment, growth, and value enhancing strategies. Mr. Kosieracki has a strong commitment to the community and the youth of America. For over four years now, he has been teaching classes in Finance, International Business, and Entrepreneurship as an adjunct instructor at Brevard Community College.
