Dr. Al Koller, CertTec

STN Members Can Receive Certification from CertTec

Dr. Al Koller is passionate about the aerospace industry. His career spans more than 50 years, with deep ties into the education, training and certification of aerospace personnel. Recently, he has made it known that he would like to help the Spacecoast Technical Network's members in their quest for re-entering the workforce by way of providing certifications through a new organization known as CertTEC®.

CertTEC® (Certifying Technical Employee Competence), a division of SPI (SpaceTEC Partners, Inc), has joined with corporations that are world leaders in the design, development, and installation of technical training systems. These systems support military,

Friday's Speaker

P. Kevin Gulliver

P. Kevin Gulliver is the President of Nida Corporation in Melbourne, Florida. Nida has been providing performance-based, technical training interventions for schools, military, and industry since 1972. Mr. Gulliver joined Nida Corporation in 1998 after retiring from the U.S. Coast Guard as the Performance Systems Development Officer at the Aviation Technical Training Center in Elizabeth City, North Carolina. Mr. Gulliver holds a computer engineering technology degree from Southern Polytechnic in Marietta, Georgia, a professional aeronautics degree from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, and is a Co-Chairman of the National Aerospace Technical Advisory Committee in support of SpaceTEC, an aerospace technician certifying organization based in Cape Canaveral, Florida.

Mr. Gulliver has presented as a technical training & education speaker at the ITEC Conference in Amsterdam, Cologne, and London, the I/ITSEC in Orlando, Canadian Forces Training Forum, and the EAA AirVenture in Oshkosh. He has provided technical training workshops throughout the U.S., industrial, and educational groups, working in areas that reach beyond aerospace to provide web-based delivery of technical training and testing.
